

God's Grace for the Weary-Participant's Guide

OPENING PRAYER

Heavenly Father, you see every unseen task, every quiet burden, and every night we fall into bed exhausted. You know the worries we carry and the weight that presses on our hearts. As we gather around your Word, remind us that you are faithful and strong even when we are not. Let your promises breathe rest and hope into us today through Jesus, our Savior. Amen.

WHEN GOD FEELS FAR AWAY

Read Isaiah 40:27.

Why do you complain, Jacob?

Why do you say, Israel,

"My way is hidden from the LORD; my cause is disregarded by my God"?

Isaiah was writing to people who were spiritually, emotionally, and physically worn down. Life hadn't turned out the way they expected. The captive Israelites felt scattered, small, and forgotten. And so they wondered, "Does God see what I'm going through? Does he notice? Does he care?"

These questions aren't just ancient. They are deeply familiar.

Women today often carry weariness.

For some, it looks like:

- Trying to figure out who you are and where you belong
- Making decisions about school, work, or next steps that feel heavy and uncertain
- Carrying anxiety about the future, finances, or expectations
- Feeling pressure to succeed, be "enough," or prove yourself
- Wondering if you're falling behind while everyone else seems ahead

GOD WHO DOES NOT GROW WEARY

Read Isaiah 40:28.

Do you not know? Have you not heard?

The LORD is the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth.

He will not grow tired or weary, and his understanding no one can fathom.

Isaiah gently lifts his readers' gaze from inward reflection back up to God. God is not limited in the same way as human beings. He doesn't run out of strength at the end of the day. He doesn't become mentally or emotionally drained. He doesn't lose track of his children in the crowd. He is never confused about what you are walking through. He is not distant.

He is the God who made you. He is the God who keeps his promises. He is the God who knows your story.

For those who grow weary, God offers this steady comfort:

- My help comes from the LORD ... indeed, he who watches over Israel will neither slumber nor sleep ... he will watch over your life; the LORD will watch over your coming and going both now and forevermore (Psalm 121 2a, 4, 7b-8).
- "Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest" (Matthew 11:28),

The God who created the whole universe and controls and understands everything on earth is always watching over you. And he provides you with a personal invitation to rest in him.

3. Read Psalm 121. What parts of this psalm show you that God is not limited as you are?

4. What parts of Psalm 121 show you how much God cares about your story?

GOD GIVES STRENGTH TO THE TIRED

Read Isaiah 40:29-31a.

*He gives strength to the weary and increases the power of the weak.
Even youths grow tired and weary, and young men stumble and fall;
but those who hope in the LORD will renew their strength.*

Isaiah pictures even the healthiest, strongest people eventually collapsing. Human strength always runs out. But God is different.

5. Using Isaiah 40:29-31, list some ways that God cares for his people.

He gives strength. He lifts up the faint. He renews the heart.

Sometimes, it's easy to think that faith means having it all together. But here God shows that faith looks more like collapsing into his promises and trusting him when you are worn thin. Faith doesn't find strength in itself; rather, it's the object of that faith that gives comfort. Your faith is in the Almighty God who loves you the most!

Your faith is also in a God who stepped into your weakness and knows it all too well.

The Gospels are full of examples where Jesus grew tired, slept, wept, suffered, carried grief, and bore the full weight of your sin and sorrow. For example, see John 4:6, Mark 4:38, John 11:33, Luke 22:39-44, and Matthew 27:46.

He knows weariness from the inside out. And he walks with his people through it (see Hebrews 4:14,15).

When Isaiah says that God will "give strength to the weary," he isn't promising an easy life. He is saying: "You are not carrying yourself. God is carrying you."

HELD BY THE FAITHFUL GOD

Read Isaiah 40:31.

*But those who hope in the LORD will renew their strength.
They will soar on wings like eagles;
they will run and not grow weary, they will walk and not be faint.*

This does not describe a rare kind of super-Christian life. It describes what happens when weary people stop trying to carry themselves and instead live as people held by the Lord.

Once you know the truth—the truth that God sees you, keeps his promises, does not grow weary, and is carrying you—your life begins to look different. This isn't because your responsibilities disappear, but rather because you stop living as if everything depends on you.

When you realize that not everything depends on you, you can live with a larger perspective than your present moment. Isaiah says those who hope in the Lord will soar. This isn't because they escape life, but because God lifts their eyes to see beyond today to their eternal goal of being at home with him in heaven.

6. Think of your weariness from question 1. How does your perspective shift when you recognize that God is renewing your strength?

Isaiah doesn't only describe soaring and running. He also says those who hope in the Lord will "walk and not be faint." Some seasons aren't fast. Some seasons are slow, repetitive, and heavy. Walking may even feel like more of a slog through mud—but God is still faithful in those seasons, too.

7. What areas of your life feel like “walking” right now? Which of God’s promises in Isaiah can you carry through those circumstances?

When you know you are carried by grace, your life of service becomes joyful thanksgiving for the gifts God has freely given in Christ. You can lead, encourage, disciple, and care for others in response to God’s loving hold on you.

8. In your life of service, what might change when you remember that you are held by a faithful God?

FINAL REFLECTION

Finish this sentence in prayer: “Lord, I am weary of _____. Please carry me and remind me of your faithfulness and renewal.”

Take a moment to rest in the fact that God is carrying you, today and always. You are not upheld by your determination. You are upheld by a faithful Savior who keeps watch over you and strengthens you in your calling until the day you rest fully in him.

CLOSING PRAYER

Lord Jesus, you see the places where we are worn down, the burdens we carry, the expectations we feel, and the limits we run into. Thank you for not turning away from weary people. Thank you for carrying our sorrows, sins, and weaknesses to the cross. Renew our hearts with your promises. Remind us that you are strong even when we are weak and that your grace is enough for every season. Watch over us, our families and friends, our churches, our work, and our service. Give us joy in knowing that we belong to you. In your holy name we pray. Amen.
